Benjamin Carter

Benjamin Carter was born to Ben Carter and Lillie Carter on September 5, 1960, in Greenwood, South Carolina. He grew up with his brother Irvine Carter and his grandparents Lonnie and Alice Hamilton in Greenwood. He later moved to Washington, DC where he graduated from Anacostia High school.

He took pride in learning a skilled trade and carried that work ethic with him throughout his life. He was known as Bay to his closest friends and family.

Benjamin did a short tour in the military and was honorable discharged from the DC National Guard. Over the years, Benjamin worked Security jobs and during the later part of his life maintain several construction jobs. He eventually retired from construction.

Not only did Benjamin work hard, enjoyed hosting cookouts for his friends and family. Sports and games brought him joy. He especially enjoyed watching the Dallas Cowboys play while drinking a cold Budweiser beer. He marveled over antagonizing his brother Irvine because he's a Commanders fan. These interests were more than hobbies; they were shared experiences where he often shared friendships with a sense of belonging.

Benjamin leaves behind a brother Irvine, a nephew Maurice, Uncle John Albert Carter, host of cousins and friends. While he may no longer be physically present, his spirit lives on in shared memories, family stories and the lessons learned simply by knowing him.

He will be remembered with love and gratitude for the life he lived, the path he walked, and the imprint he left on those who knew and loved him.
