“ I am Betty Hughley. Hugh Darden Huguley was my first cousin, our fathers were brothers. Hugh grew up with my brothers and sisters because he and they were about 20 years older than me. He was truly loved by our family. He was the eldest of his four siblings but he outlived them all, his second sister died just a year ago. My funny story about Hugh is that I asked him why did he change the spelling of our last name, he said a teacher at our high school spelled it that way so as an impressionable teenager he changed it. We still laugh about that. He will be truly missed. His death came too quickly. I will see him again throughout eternity because he was a Christian. So I know he's in heaven with the rest of our family.

“ Hugh was one of the best dressed men I have ever known. Regardless of his health, he always maintained that classic gentleman look. In addition, one could not visit Hugh without being treated to his delicious sweet potato pie! We will certainly miss him.

“ Hugh was our very own “DapperDan”! Always dressed to impress from head to toe. Hugh had a way with words as well, why he earned the nickname “Rap” in some circles. I believe that conversation is what won my Mom’s heart. Hugh and my were very sociable. They were both advent sports fans and were often at D.C. stadium when possible to catch the Redskins. They enjoyed people and all were welcome when he was doing what he loved, cooking!! Him being a Chef by trade had us guessing what he was preparing at any given time. Hugh was kind, considerate, upbeat and up-to-date. He was a great conversationalist and I loved talking to him he was full of information about the happenings around town. He always remembered my birthday, called until he reached me which always made my day cause he that booming cheerful flattering voice. Looking back I believe over the years (50?) I came to love Hugh. I could go to him with any situation and he had sound advice.

“ Growing up, anytime Hugh knew I was coming over to the house, he would make me his famous banana pudding. He didn't always use vanilla wafers, sometimes he used the sandwich cookies which made the pudding extra sweet.
I know I will get an Amen when I tell you his sweet potato pies were something special. OMG you talking about lip smacking and finger licking. The same goes for his short ribs and his bar b que ribs.
Hugh was something special. Just last month he taught me how to roast pecans. I couldn't believe such simple instructions could make a nut taste so good. I'm a foodie and he was a chef. What a perfect combo.
I love you and will miss you greatly Hugh aka granddad.

Love Teresa

“ I Remember when going w Regina over her Mothers house sitting around and playing cards and listening to the oldies but goodies and Hugh would get up and take his sky off(he loved his hats) and singing and shake a tail feather

I remember y'all playing Bid whist! They had the best backyard for cooking out, ping pong, that shaded tree on the side for cooling off...Good times!

“ Hugh was our personal photographer, he had his camera at ever family function, picnic, cookout, cabaret or birthday party. He was a true people person. You will be missed.

He sure did. Always had a camera. Someone till this day still believe I'm a twin because of his double and triple exposure. He was doing it before it was ever heard of. Diff before his time.

What fond memories of Hugh I have. He was Mr Butterfly back in the day. He loved to party, mingle and take pictures--did I mentioned,dressed to the 9's. He was quite the culinary dude too! He pride himself of baking delicious sweet potatoes pies. And, he made darn sure that I received one during the holidays. Lastly, we had a special connect because we shared the same birthday. I called him my Birthday Twin! Rest in power, Birthday Twin, until we meet again!
