Tribute Wall

“ The good truly do depart this world before many of us. Every death is sad even those we expect, but the loss of someone young who was not given the chance to live, experience the ups and down of life. Establish themselves or create dreams is unfair. I know, we think that everything happens for a reason, but there is no reason for any child or young adult to leave this world, and there is no reason for young adults in this day and time have to deal with so much loss. Jefferson was a really sweet and often shy kid who didn't cause any trouble and didn't entertain any drama. This really is unfair. Life is cruel, without a doubt.
