“ One of the truest friends I ever had. I knew for a fact you had my back no matter what. You gave me great advice at times when I had no answers. You always told me I was doing the right thing, and to keep doing what I'm doing. You might not have seen it as being a big deal, but those words helped me a lot during my military career. Some times I just wanted to quit, and come home. But I knew i had a lot of support, and I didn't want to let ppl down. It still bothers me that I couldn't attend your funeral. I know you understand why I couldn't make it, but it still feels like I let you down. I appreciate you being one of the best friends I ever had. One of the funniest moments was when me, you, and Seth was driving through McDonalds drive thru, and the car broke down. We had to push it to the window to get our food, and then walk home. It was so embarrassing, but I look back at it now as good times. We laughed, and joked the whole way back home. We all was upset we had to walk home, but we made the best out of it. Ima really miss your one of a kind personality.
