“ I first met Kenny when he and another neighbor (Johnnie, RIP) were walking down Peabody Street and stopped to ask about my teenaged daughter. I have to admit that this alarmed me on about 4 different levels, and it makes me laugh every time I think about it!...because the level of care and concern that Kenny exhibited - not just that day as he (and Johnnie) helped us to prepare for my daughter's graduation party, but for the past 4 years - has been boundless. And what fun! Hand-dancing with Kenny in the neighbor's yard...he put me and my little dance lessons to shame! The last time we saw him (another party in the yard!) he told us how ill he was. A little while later he had to go, but said he'd be back. "Okay! See you in a few!" And that was that. And that was the last time I will part ways with a friend knowing there was more to be said. Kenny will be sorely missed. On that first day when we met, funny, but I should have been alarmed that there wouldn't be enough time to enjoy this beautiful creature. Rest in Peace, my friend!
