“ A golden heart has stopped beating. Her wings were ready...her body died...and now her soul is free. Though our hearts are hurting, we must give back our beloved Mary to our Source. Grief is like a fingerprint...individual and painful...and in our emotional states we scream NO and our souls cry NEVER...but we answer YES...because we must.

Many can give account of Mary's courageous and visionary life but suffice to say she made herself unforgettable to me. We acknowledge her amazing career and acts of service to her community...all the while planting, pruning and providing the right climate to produce the most amazing fruit...her birth and extended family. May we imitate Mary as we move through the difficult times embracing the flavors, textures and colors that punctuated her beautiful life, glorifying our Source with her words and more importantly her actions.

Sending condolences and comfort to Cheryl, my dearest...I'm so grateful my friend so generously shared you with me...also, Brian, Keith, Marcia, Robert and ALL the family...not the least of whom her unbelievably caring-devoted-selfless-wise-skilled-talented granddaughter, Jacqueline...an awesome duplicate pillar like her Grandmother Mary.

We hold each other a little tighter than usual as we celebrate your incredible life, Mary, and say farewell my friend...your legacy is unmatched.

My condolences to the family. I remember her as a child visiting her house and my friendship with daughter Cheryl and Agnes, my mom's friendship with Mary. May she rest in peace. Prayers to the family.
