“ My dad would often say to me that Maxine kept him alive, and when I saw them together it was clear that he wasn't exaggerating. She was loving yet firm in her resolve; took her work seriously but always had a ready laugh for the absurdities in life; could take a joke as good as she could give one; and always walked this earth with pride and dignity and love. She was amazing and the world is a lesser place without her incredible spirit. We will keep her alive in our hearts, and try our best to honor her spirit with our actions. She will be missed.

“ Maxine took the most outstanding care of Michael's Dad, Jerry. Maxine understood intuitively the level of involvement, insistence, and humor that she needed for a successful collaboration with Jerry. Her generosity of spirit was unparalleled. She spent time at our home, taught us how to cook some of her favorite Jamaican recipes, and always helped everyone feel comfortable around her. Although I tried, I wish I could have done more to help her and I wish her peace.

“ Maxine cared for my husband for the last two years of his life. She was completely devoted to him and to our family. Maxine believed that caring for others is the highest of all callings, and she has left an indelible mark on us all. I believe with a full heart that she is resting peacefully. May her memory be a blessing.

“ Maxine told me I was her sister when she became ill. It was her way of letting me know that we were always good together. When she was well we were work colleagues for over two decades and she always worked long and hard and patiently. She was the kindest, most patient caregiver I ever met. She was exceptionally skilled at working for frail, older people whose backgrounds were usually completely different than her own and who were often difficult personalities due to their own problems. But she took the time to get to know each client and their family, and then to match her approach and her work to that individual's needs. She enjoyed her life, her family and her travels. She liked to laugh. She made the world a better place. It was my privilege to know her. Felice
